MEMORIAL OF THE GREAT WAR

A RECORD OF SERVICE

1914-1918

"Courage—'Tis the mysterious soul which never yields,
But hales us on and on to breast the rush
Of all the fortunes we shall happen through,
And when Death calls across his shadowy fields,
Dying, it answers 'Here—I am not dead.'"

GALSWORTHY

THIS book has been conceived, executed and sent forth as a tribute to those "gentlemen unafraid" of the Bank of Montreal who deliberately closed their ledgers, laid aside pen and pencil, left the calm routine of a great institution, the security of a well-ordered business life, and went forth with sublime courage, not only to endure the disheartening and glamour-dispelling weeks of preliminary training that was necessarily the portion of our noble volunteers, but to face the most relentless and ingeniously evil foe that ever menaced civilization.

For more than one hundred years the Bank of Montreal has expanded without weakening in the process of expansion, and this successful development has been characterized and sustained by an individual spirit of unselfish devotion and a subordination of personal ambition that have long since become traditional. When the time of national trial arrived it was these qualities, united with a fearless patriotism and a hatred of evil, that sent, as if inspired, fourteen hundred and nine members of our staff to fight for King and Empire.

To-day there are two hundred and thirty missing from the Roll Call. Some lie afar. "Our Dead" is proudly graven on the tablet placed to their memory in our great hall. Others,—war-worn, broken, recovered and recovering from grievous wounds, will come at times to look at this enduring tribute to their brother heroes, but this book is mainly intended to be a sympathetic record for those who are not able to view that dignified memorial to the fallen whom they loved and who loved them; it is for the sorrowing whose agony of grief is sacred, and whose proud loneliness will end only "when our battalions re-unite."

R. ANDREW, JUN.

Maurice Leslie Adamson

Lieutenant, Royal Scots Fusiliers

Was born in 1893 at Meiktila, Burma, where his father was engaged in the Indian Civil Service. He received his education at Haileybury College, at King's College, London, and at Pullman College in the State of Washington. After ranching for one year in Western Canada he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in 1913. He enlisted in August, 1914, as a Private in the Canadian Infantry, and went to England with the First Canadian Contingent. While in training at Salisbury Plain he received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the 10th Royal Irish Battalion and with this unit he went to France early in 1915. He was about to transfer to the Royal Scots Fusiliers in which he had been given his commission as Lieutenant, when his battalion was ordered to the Somme. Here he was killed on July 1st, 1916, while leading his platoon into action.

William R. Allison

Gunner, Canadian Garrison Artillery, C.E.F.

Was born in New Westminster, British Columbia, in 1897, the son of William Allison, bank manager. After completing his education in the schools of his native place he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted early in 1917, in his 19th year, as a Private in the Canadian Infantry and arrived in France with his unit in the following autumn. He was sent almost immediately with his unit to the Ypres salient to take part in the operations for the capture of Passchendaele Ridge. He had been a year on active service when he was severely wounded by enemy fire in September, 1918, in an attack during the Canadian advance towards Cambrai. He was evacuated to England for treatment, but his wounds proved fatal and he died in the hospital at Buxton, Derbyshire, on February 24th, 1919. He was one of three brothers who served in the war.

Robert James Allan

Lieutenant, 14th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Weston, Ontario, in 1896. In 1911 he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in 1915 as a Private in the 75th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, but he eventually went to France with a reinforcement draft for the 14th Battalion. He was soon promoted to the rank of Company Sergeant-Major. On April 9th, 1917, in the attack at Vimy Ridge he led his company to its objective with great skill after all his company officers had fallen. For his gallantry he was awarded the Military Medal, and he received on the field his commission as Lieutenant. On the night of April 27, 1917, while leading a raiding party into the enemy trenches near Arleux, he captured with its crew an enemy machine-gun which harassed his advance. For this he received the Military Cross. He was killed in the attack at Amiens on August 11th, 1918.

Robert Andrew, Jun.

Private, 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, C.E.F.

Was born in Glengarnock, Scotland, in 1895. After completing his education in the schools of his native place and at Skerry's College, where he took a business course, he entered the service of the British Linen Bank in 1910. He came to Canada towards the end of 1912 and joined the staff of the Bank of British North America. He enlisted in Saskatchewan in August, 1914, as a Private in the 16th Canadian Light Horse. He later transferred to the 5th Battalion, Canadian Mounted Rifles, and went to France with the First Canadian Contingent. A few days before the battle of Ypres on April 21st, 1915, he was detailed for duty with the machine-gun section of his battalion, which was then going into action. After the battle he was posted as missing, but later he was reported as having been killed in action during the resistance of the enemy attack.

Jasper Boyd Andrews

Private, 13th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Quebec City in 1896. After receiving his education at the Quebec High School, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. In May, 1916, he enlisted as a Private in the 171st Battalion, and went to England with his unit in the following November. He had meanwhile been promoted to Corporal, but in order to get to the front more quickly he reverted to the rank of Private, and in March, 1917, he went to France with a reinforcement draft for the 13th Battalion, 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada. He fought with his unit at Vimy, Hill 70, and Passchendaele, and because of his efficient work he was recommended for a commission. On November 24, 1917, just after his battalion had moved from Passchendaele to the Lens front, he was instantly killed at Avion with eight of his comrades by an enemy trench-mortar shell.

Arthur Howard Asker

Second Lieutenant, Middlesex Regiment

Was born in Lichfield, England, in 1892. He received his education at Frog Lane School, the Lichfield Cathedral Chorister School, and Lawrence's College. After a brief banking experience in Nottingham, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in London. In August, 1914, he enlisted as a Private in the 6th Essex Regiment, in which he was given his commission as 2nd Lieutenant. In 1915 he went with his unit to the Dardanelles and landed at Suvla Bay, Gallipoli, on August 11, 1915. Five weeks later he was severely wounded by a Turkish sniper's bullet. He was evacuated to England, and after undergoing an operation he returned to duty with his Regimental Depot in London. He was later transferred to a Labour Company of the Middlesex Regiment at Felixstowe. Here he was instantly killed in a motorcycle accident on January 30th, 1917.

Lancelot Edgar Ashcroft

Lieutenant, 16th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Hunterville, New Zealand, in January, 1897. Two years later he came to British Columbia with his parents. He received his education in the Isle of Man, Victoria, B.C., New Zealand, and at Vernon, B.C. He then entered the service of the Bank of Montreal at the latter place. Early in 1916 he enlisted in the 103rd Battalion, Canadian Infantry, in which he was given his commission as Lieutenant, and went overseas with his unit. While training in England he was appointed Orderly Officer on the Headquarters Staff at Seaford, where he remained until March, 1917. He then went to France and was posted to the 16th Battalion, Canadian Scottish. A few days after he reached the front he was killed by enemy fire on the morning of April 9th, 1917, while going forward with his battalion in the attack for the capture of Vimy Ridge.

Debney Byron Bailly

Sergeant, 24th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, in 1894. After completing his education in his native town, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in 1911. He enlisted in 1916 as a Private in the 244th Battalion, and went to England with his unit in April, 1917. In May he was sent to France with a reinforcement draft for the 87th Battalion, Canadian Grenadier Guards. Because of his efficiency he was soon promoted to the rank of Sergeant. He was severely wounded on August 15th, 1917, during the attack for the capture of Hill 70. On his discharge from hospital he was detailed to take a course in musketry, in which he led the class for non-commissioned officers. After a special course with honours at the Hythe Musketry School he joined the 24th Battalion in France on April 3rd, 1918. On April 10th, 1918, he was instantly killed by a shell from an enemy long-range gun.

C.R.BARRETT

Walter Holmes Baker

Private, 46th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Manchester, England, on May 13th, 1899. After completing his education at the Secondary School in his native city he came to Canada in 1914, and entered the service of the Bank of British North America in July, serving at the Battleford, Saskatchewan, branch until he enlisted. In April, 1916, he enlisted for overseas service as a Private in the 196th Western University Overseas Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and after some weeks of training he proceeded to England with his unit. After a further period of training he proceeded to France with a reinforcement draft for the 46th Battalion and almost immediately went into action with his unit. He had been at the front but a brief period when he was severely wounded by enemy fire during an attack in which his unit was engaged. He died of his wounds on October 27th, 1917.

Rennie Hamilton Barnes

Lieutenant, 31st Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Lachine, Quebec, in 1897. In November, 1915, he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in December, 1915, as a Private in the 5th Universities Company, recruited to reinforce the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and reached the firing line with his unit on June 1st, 1916. He was later appointed Lance-Corporal and placed in charge of one of the machine-gun detachments of his battalion. He was slightly wounded on April 9, 1917, in the attack for the capture of Vimy Ridge, and he was again wounded at Passchendaele in November, 1917. On his recovery he was given his commission as Lieutenant and attached to the 31st Battalion, Canadian Infantry. He was killed at Ewars, not far from Cambrai, on October 11, 1918, in an attack on the enemy during the final offensive of the war.

David Jellett Barker

Lieutenant, 87th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Picton, Ontario, in 1878. After receiving his education in the Picton High School, he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal in 1896. He advanced rapidly in the service and capably filled in various places posts of great responsibility. Because of his energy and ability he was appointed in 1912 Assistant to the General Manager. In 1916 he enlisted with the 245th Battalion, and went to England as Captain of "C" Company. In order to reach the front more quickly he reverted to the rank of Lieutenant, and went to France in August, 1917, with a reinforcement draft for the 87th Battalion, Canadian Grenadier Guards. On September 27th, 1917, his battalion then holding the line at Avion, near Lens, was relieved by another unit; he was waiting with his men for the relieving company when he was instantly killed by an enemy trench mortar shell.

Cecil Roy Barrett

Second Lieutenant, Royal Field Artillery

Was born at Millfield House, Folkestone, England, in 1891. He was educated at Sutherland House School, Folkestone, and at Dover College. After completing his education he came to Western Canada where he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted early in 1915 as a Gunner in the 17th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, and went to England with the Second Canadian Contingent. While training in England he received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the Royal Field Artillery, and went to France with his unit in 1916. He was mentioned in despatches for conspicuous gallantry in rescuing some of his men from a burning gun-pit and extinguishing the fire caused by burning cartridges after a direct hit had been registered on the pit by enemy artillery. On June 25th, 1917, he was instantly killed in action by enemy shell fire.

Thomas Brown Barrie

Captain, 72nd Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Gauldry, Fife, Scotland, in 1890. He was educated at Gauldry and at Dundee. Later he came to Canada where he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. In 1915 he went overseas as a Private in the Canadian Mounted Rifles. He was rapidly promoted and was soon given his commission as Lieutenant. He was awarded the Military Cross in April, 1917, for conspicuous gallantry in making several dangerous reconnaissances at Vimy Ridge and obtaining valuable information. In May, 1917, he received a bar to the Military Cross for leading a patrol six hundred yards into enemy territory and inflicting many casualties. He was also mentioned in despatches. In September, 1918, he was severely wounded while successfully holding a key position with seventeen men against a large enemy force. He died from his wounds on October 2nd, 1918.

Philip Keith Beall

Lance-Corporal, 72nd Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Burbage, England, in 1890. He received his education at the Bedford School where he was noted as an athlete. Before he entered the service of the Bank of British North America in London, England, he was employed for over three years in the Capital and Counties Bank Limited. He was transferred to Canada in 1913. He enlisted in Vancouver, B.C., in March, 1916, as a Private in the 72nd Battalion, Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, and reached France in August, 1916. He was appointed Lance-Corporal and detailed for duty with the bombing section of his battalion, with which he served continuously during the autumn months. On November 23rd, 1916, he was instantly killed by enemy fire while leading his company bombers in an attack on an enemy trench. Before his death he had been recommended for a commission.

Newell Holland Bate

Lieutenant, 7th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Ottawa in 1887. He was educated at the Model School, Ottawa, and at St. Alban's, Berthier. In 1905 he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in Edmonton in 1915 as a Private in the 66th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and went to France in 1916 with a reinforcement draft for the 49th Battalion. In 1917 he was given his commission as Lieutenant and attached to the 7th Battalion. On the night of March 13th, 1918, he volunteered to lead a raiding party into the enemy's trenches; while lying with his men in front of the enemy wire waiting for zero-hour he was severely wounded, but he refused to allow any of his men to carry him back or to stay with him, lest their absence from the small force might jeopardize the success of the operation. Later he was picked up by stretcher-bearers, but he died before reaching the dressing-station.

Reginald J. Beardsworth

Private, 27th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born at Astley Bridge, Lancs., England, in 1893, the son of the Rev. J. E. Beardsworth, of Leamington. He received his education at Greyfriars School, Leamington, and at King's School, Canterbury. In April, 1910, he came to Canada, where he engaged in farming for about one year. He then entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. In August, 1914, he enlisted as a Private in the 95th Saskatchewan Rifles, and arrived in France in February, 1915, with the First Canadian Contingent. He was in almost continuous action with his battalion during 1915, 1916, and the early part of 1917, in the Ypres salient, on the Somme, and in the Vimy sector. He was instantly killed by enemy fire during the intense fighting at Oppy Wood on May 3rd, 1917, in the attack for the capture of the village of Fresnoy in front of Vimy Ridge.

Leonard Frederic Beesley

Lieutenant, 2nd Can. Eng. Reserve, C.E.F.

Was born in Macclesfield, England, in March, 1888. He came to Canada in November, 1911, to an appointment in the Bank of British North America. In September, 1915, he enlisted as a Private in the 67th Battalion, Western Scots, and proceeded to England six months later as a Sergeant. After a further period of training in England he went to France with his unit, to the Ypres salient and later to the Somme front and Vimy Ridge. Early in 1917 he received his commission as Lieutenant. He was later transferred to the Engineers becoming first Adjutant of the 1st Canadian Tramways Company. In July, 1918, he was gassed at Lieven and evacuated to England. On his discharge from hospital he was attached to the 2nd Canadian Engineers Reserve Battalion. He died of influenza on 26th February, 1920, having never fully recovered from being gassed.

William Joseph Blackburn

Private, 1st Canadian Mounted Rifles, C.E.F.

Was born in Manitoba on September 29th, 1896. After completing his education in Holylea School, he entered the service of the Bank of British North America at Oak River, Manitoba, at the age of eighteen. He enlisted in November, 1915, as a Private in the 90th Battalion. He proceeded overseas with his unit and after a further period of training in England he arrived in France in 1916, being attached to the 1st Battalion, Canadian Mounted Rifles. He went into action with his battalion in the Somme sector where intense fighting was then in progress, but he passed unscathed through the battles in which his unit was engaged in 1916 and the greater part of 1917. After serving for over a year in the line he was severely wounded by fire during an attack upon an enemy position. He died from his wounds on November 15th, 1917.

William Roy Gwyn Benson

Second Lieutenant, South Staffordshire Regt.

Was born near Cowbridge, South Wales, in 1895. He was educated at the Grocers Company's School, Hackney Downs. He entered the Bank of Montreal in London, England, in June, 1912, and came to Canada in 1914. In August, 1914, he returned home to enlist in the University and Public Schools Brigade of the Royal Fusiliers and was soon promoted to Quartermaster-Sergeant. In May, 1915, he received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the South Staffordshire Regiment, and went to France with his unit in October, 1915. Later he was appointed Machine-gun Officer of his battalion. On the night of July 2nd, 1916, when visiting his guns in the front line during an intense enemy bombardment, he found a sentry wounded and half buried by the explosion of a shell. While trying to release the fallen sentry he was mortally wounded by shell fire.

Harold Body

Private, P.P.C.L.I., C.E.F.

Was born in Brighton, England, in July, 1890. After receiving his education at Holmfield Sutton and Brighton College, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in England, but soon afterwards he was transferred to Canada. In 1915 he enlisted as a Private in one of the Universities Companies recruited to reinforce the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and a few weeks later he went to France with his unit. He was severely wounded by enemy fire on June 2nd, 1916, during the attack at Sanctuary Wood in the Ypres salient. He was evacuated to England but, after a few weeks in hospital, he recovered sufficiently to return to the front where he rejoined his former battalion in the line. He had been back with his unit but a brief period when on December 16th, 1916, he was instantly killed in action at St. Eloi.

Elmer Leeds Bolton

Private, 107th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Darlingford, Manitoba, on October 1st, 1897. After receiving his education in the schools of his native place he entered the service of the Bank of British North America in the Darlingford branch in October, 1915. While still employed at that point he enlisted for overseas service in March, 1916, as a Private in the 184th Battalion, Canadian Infantry. He proceeded overseas with his unit and after a further period of training in England he went to France in the autumn of 1916 with a reinforcement draft for the 107th Battalion. He was killed in action on August 15th, 1917, during the operation for the taking of Hill 70, near Lens. He was one of two brothers, both of whom were employed in the same branch of the Bank of British North America and fell in action at the front. His elder brother was killed two months earlier, also in the Vimy sector.

Harold Albert Bolton

Private, 8th Battalion, C.E.F.

Brother of Elmer Leeds Bolton, whose record appears elsewhere on this page, was born in Darlingford, Manitoba, in 1896. After receiving his education in the Calf Mountain and the Darlingford Public Schools, he entered the service of the Bank of British North America in the Darlingford branch in 1912. He was still stationed there when he enlisted in October, 1915, as a Private in the 90th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and proceeded overseas. After a further period of training in England, he went to France. He was subsequently attached to the 8th Battalion. For conspicuous bravery in the line he was awarded the Military Medal. After serving in the line for about eighteen months he was killed in action near Lens, in the Vimy sector on June 20th, 1917, predeceasing his younger brother who likewise fell in action two months later.

Frederick H. B. Bond

Lieutenant, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery

Was born in Farnborough England in 1894. He was educated at Cheltenham College, and the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich. He left Woolwich in 1913 before his course was completed and came to Canada, where he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in 1914, and was given his commission as Lieutenant in the Canadian Field Artillery, but in order to reach the front more quickly he resigned his commission and enlisted as a Gunner in "A" Battery, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, which was leaving for England at once. After a few weeks of training he went to France with his unit, and was soon promoted to Lieutenant. On May 12th, 1915, he was severely wounded by enemy shell fire as he was returning from duty as Forward Observation Officer in an Observation Post in the front line trenches near Hill 60. He died from his wounds on the following day.

Frederic Stanley Bone

Private, 18th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Plymouth, England, in August, 1890. After completing his education in Plymouth, he came to Canada in September, 1915, and entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in Chatham, Ontario. In February, 1916, he enlisted as a Private in the 186th Battalion, Canadian Infantry. He went overseas with his unit and after a brief period of training in England he arrived in France in the following autumn and went into action on the Somme. He took part in all the operations in which his battalion was engaged in the autumn of 1916, 1917, and the spring of 1918. During the great enemy offensive south of Arras in March, 1918, he was severely wounded by enemy fire while his unit was resisting the enemy attack. A few days later, on April 4th, 1918, he died from his wounds in the hospital at Doullens.

Barclay and Company, Limited, to follow banking as his profession. He was later employed for some months by the Mercantile Bank of India. In May, 1913, he came to Canada and joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal in Montreal. He enlisted for overseas service immediately after the declaration of war in August, 1914. He went to England with his unit, and while undergoing training preparatory to proceeding to France he was given his commission as Lieutenant in the Rifle Brigade. He was on active service throughout the war in various spheres of operation until one month before the Armistice was signed, when he was drowned on the "Leinster."

Sidney Bown

Gunner, 4th C.D.A.C., C.E.F.

Was born in Burton-on-Trent, England, on July 9th, 1900. He received his education in the Brodway School, Burton-on-Trent, in the William Dawson School and the Commercial and Technical High School, Montreal. In August, 1915, he entered the service of the Bank of British North America. He enlisted in November, 1916, as a Gunner in "C" Battery, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, and went to England with a draft in April, 1917. In the following July he was sent to France where he was attached as a Driver to the Fourth Canadian Divisional Ammunition Column. While carrying ammunition by pack-mule to the 19th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, during the operation for the capture of Passchendaele in November, 1917, he was instantly killed by bombs dropped from enemy aircraft as he drew near the battery with his supplies.

Ralph Archibald Bowie

Second Lieutenant, 5th Leicestershire Regt.

Was born in Balham, England, in 1890. After receiving his education at Upper Tooting High School, he came to Canada, where in 1911 he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in Vancouver, B.C., in February, 1915, as a Private in the 29th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and arrived in France with his unit in the following October. He took part in all the battles in which the Canadians were engaged until January, 1917, when he was given his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the 5th Leicestershire Regiment, British Expeditionary Force. While leading his platoon in an attack near Gravenstaffel, in front of Ypres in the Passchendaele sector, on September 26th, 1917, he was severely wounded in the hand. He still pressed forward gallantly at the head of his men, but a few minutes later he was instantly killed by enemy fire.

Henry Ormsby Boyd

Lieutenant, South Lancashire Regiment

Was born near Calgary, Alberta, in 1892. After receiving his education at St. Alban's School, Toronto, he entered the Bank of British North America. He enlisted in August, 1914, as a Private in the 17th Battalion, but went overseas with the 15th Battalion, 48th Highlanders of Canada. Before he went to France he was given his commission as Lieutenant in the 6th South Lancashire Regiment in Kitchener's Army. He was then ordered to Egypt where he was at first placed in charge of transport with the Mesopotamian Force going up the Tigris to the relief of General Townshend at Kut-el-Amara. Later he was given command of the bombers. He was instantly killed by a stray enemy bullet on the 12th of May, 1916, while in charge of bombers covering a party of pioneers who were digging a new work on the Tigris line.

G.B.BROWN

Henry Edward Briscoe

Sergeant, 38th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Dublin, Ireland, on April 15th, 1888. He received his education in the Enniskillen Model and Royal Schools in his native city. He served for three years in the Ulster Bank, Limited. Later he came to Canada, and in December, 1910, entered the service of the Bank of British North America in which he was employed first in the Hamilton Branch and subsequently in the New York Agency. He enlisted in Hamilton in March, 1916, as a Private in the 125th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and after some months training in Canada and England he proceeded to France. He was later attached to the 38th Battalion. He successfully participated in practically all the engagements in which his unit took part during 1917 and the spring of 1918. He was killed in action on April 22nd, 1918, and was buried near where he fell.

Ewart Cudemore Brown

Lieutenant, Royal Flying Corps

Was born in St. George, Bermuda, in 1894. He was educated at St. George Grammar School, Whitney Institute and Warwick Academy. He came to Canada in 1910, and joined the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in Ottawa in March, 1915, with "D" Company, 38th Battalion, which later formed part of the 1st Universities Company recruited to reinforce the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and he went to France in the following summer. In 1916 he was severely wounded and shell-shocked. After several months in hospital, and a brief period in the Pay and Records Office, he received his commission as Lieutenant and rejoined his old regiment in France. Later he transferred to the Royal Flying Corps. While making a trial flight at Waddington, Lincoln, England, on August 14th, 1917, his aeroplane crashed and he was killed.

Douglas Elliott Brock

Gunner, Royal Field Artillery

Was born in 1898 at Wuhu in the Province of Ngan-hwei, China. He was educated at the China Inland Mission Schools, Chefoo, China, and there passed the Preliminary and the Junior local examinations for entrance to Oxford University. In 1915 he went to England where he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in the Waterloo Place office in London. Here he was employed when in March, 1917, he enlisted in the Honourable Artillery Company, and after training for seven months in England he went to France with his unit. Later he transferred to the Royal Field Artillery in which he served as a Gunner. After five months in action at the front with his battery, he was instantly killed by a shell from an enemy long-range gun. He was buried in the British cemetery in the village of Choques, France, near where he fell.

George Basil Brown

Acting Corporal, Canadian Field Artillery

Was born in Toronto, in 1898. He received his education at Ashbury College, Ottawa, and after graduation he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. In December, 1915, he enlisted as a Gunner in the 32nd Battery, Canadian Field Artillery; he went overseas with his unit and after a brief period of training in England he arrived in France in the following May. He took part in all the battles in which the Canadians were engaged during 1916 and 1917, on the Somme, at Vimy Ridge, at Hill 70, and in the Ypres salient. For gallant and distinguished conduct during the attack for the capture of Vimy Ridge on April 9th, 1917, he was awarded the Military Medal. He was instantly killed by enemy fire on November 14th, 1917, during the Canadian offensive for the capture of Passchendaele Ridge in front of Ypres.

Gregory Bryan

Private, 28th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Gleichen, Alberta, in 1895. After receiving his education at the Innisfail Public School and at the High School, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in Red Deer, Alberta. He enlisted in August, 1915, as a Private in the 78th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and went overseas in October with a reinforcement draft. In March, 1916, he arrived in France, where he was attached to the 28th Battalion. During the offensive on the Somme he was severely wounded on the morning of September 15th, 1916, while advancing in the attack at Courcelette. When the stretcher-bearers came to him he told them not to waste time over him for he was beyond aid. "There are lots of boys lying around," he said, "who have a good chance of living if they are attended to at once. Go and do your best for them." He died on the field a few minutes later.

Evan Stuart Cameron

Second Lieutenant, Cameron Highlanders

Was born in Inverness, Scotland, in 1892. He was educated at the Inverness Royal Academy, and after serving his apprenticeship as a chartered accountant, he came to Canada in October, 1913, and entered the Bank of British North America. He enlisted in Winnipeg in October, 1914, as a Private in the 28th Battalion, and went to France with the Second Canadian Contingent. After serving six months with his battalion in the line, he was given his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the Cameron Highlanders in February, 1916. He took his qualifying course at Trinity College, Cambridge, in the summer of 1916 and returned to France in October. On the early morning of April 11th, 1917, he was instantly killed by enemy machine-gun fire while advancing with his platoon in the attack for the capture of Monchy, five miles east of Arras.

John James Buchanan

Private, Cyclist Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Smethwick, Staffordshire, in 1889. He was educated at King Edward's High School, Birmingham. After a brief banking experience in England, he came to Canada in September, 1911, and entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted at Buckingham, Quebec, in November, 1914, as a Private in a Cyclist Battalion with the Second Canadian Contingent, and arrived in France in September, 1916. On October 6th, 1916, while he was acting as a stretcher-bearer and carrying wounded from the front line at Courcelette where his brigade suffered heavy casualties, he was severely wounded in the knee by an enemy sniper. He crawled back until he was picked up by bearers. On the way to the Clearing Station he was again wounded by an enemy shell which completely demolished the ambulance. He died from his wounds on October 21st, 1916.

Alfred Campbell

Private, 67th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Kintore, Scotland, in 1892. After completing his education in his native place he entered the service of the North of Scotland and Town and County Bank, Limited, where he remained for five years. He came to Canada in 1913, and joined the staff of the Bank of British North America in Victoria, B.C. In October, 1915, he enlisted as a Private in the 67th Western Scots Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and went to France with his unit. Because of his experience and his training he was twice offered clerical appointments behind the line, in positions of comparative safety, but he preferred to remain in the trenches among the friends with whom he had enlisted. On the night of September 1st, 1916, he was severely wounded by enemy fire when in action at Mount Kemmel, Belgium. He died from his wounds a few hours later.

Lieutenant, 16th Prince Edward Regiment

Was born in Picton, Ontario, in 1897. He was educated at the Public School and at the Picton Collegiate Institute and, after completing his education, he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal in August, 1914. Two weeks after reaching his 18th birthday in 1915, he volunteered for overseas service. He was subsequently attached to the Canadian Officers' Training Corps in Kingston, Ontario, in which he qualified as a Lieutenant. On the completion of his qualifying course he was to be posted to the 155th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force. At the closing of his class he contracted a severe cold, as a result of exposure during training. This rapidly developed into pneumonia from which, after only a few days illness, he died on January 24th, 1916, at Picton and was buried at that place.

Francis Stuart Chaese

Sergeant, 24th Battalion, C. E. F.

Was born in Hartford, Connecticut, in March, 1893. He was educated at Exeter School, Devonshire, England. In 1909 he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in Mexico City, and in 1914 he was transferred to the Head Office in Montreal. He enlisted as a Private in the 24th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, early in 1915 and arrived in France with his unit in the following summer. Because of his efficient work he was soon promoted to the rank of Sergeant. On October 1st, 1916, during an attack near Courcelette on the Somme, his battalion was held up by intense enemy fire while advancing to its objective. It was necessary for his company to bomb its way through, and while leading his bombers forward and encouraging them to dislodge the enemy from their position, he was instantly killed by enemy fire. His company gained its objective.

Andrew Gordon Cathcart

Private, 7th Battalion, C. E. F.

Was born in Omagh, County of Tyrone, Ireland, in 1885. He was educated at Foyle College, Londonderry, and after completing his education he entered the service of the Ulster Bank, Limited, in Ireland, with which he remained for five years. He came to Canada, in 1907, and joined the staff of the Bank of British North America, in Toronto. He enlisted in Vancouver in July, 1917, with the Canadian forces as a Private in the infantry and proceeded overseas with his unit. After service in France, during which he passed unscathed through many battles of the war, he was killed in action on the early morning of September 27th, 1918, while taking part in the Canadian attack along the Canal du Nord in the advance towards Cambrai. He was buried in the Canadian cemetery at Sans le Marquion on the bank of the canal.

Arthur G. Clayton, Jun.

C.F.O.GORMAN

John Howard N. Gleave

Private, 67th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born at Newtown, Wigan, Lancs., in 1894, the only son of the Rev. Thomas Gleave, of Douglas-in-Parbold, near Wigan. He was educated at Balshaw's Grammar School, Leyland. After serving for three years with the Williams Deacon's Bank, Limited, he came to Canada in 1913 and joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal. In February, 1916, he enlisted in Vancouver, B.C., as a Private in the 67th Western Scots Pioneer Battalion and arrived in France in the following August. On August 29th he was offered an appointment to the business department of the Divisional Y.M.C.A. for which, because of his previous experience, he was well qualified. He declined to transfer, as he preferred to remain in the line with his platoon. Three days later, on September 1st, 1916, he was instantly killed in action at Mount Kemmel, Belgium.

John Fraser Gordon

Private, 47th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born at Muir-of-Ord, Ross-shire, Scotland, in 1888. He was educated at the Mortlach Higher Grade School, Dufftown, and after a banking experience of seven years in the North of Scotland and Town and County Bank Limited, he came to Canada in 1911 and entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He later became Accountant in the branch at Kamloops, B.C., where he enlisted in February, 1916, as a Private in the 172nd Battalion, Canadian Infantry. On his arrival in England he was attached to "B" Company, 47th Battalion, and with this unit he arrived in France in June, 1917. On September 28th, 1918, the day after the crossing of the Canal du Nord by the Canadians in their advance on Cambrai, he was instantly killed by enemy shell-fire while his company was attacking an enemy stronghold in front of Bourlon Wood.

Arthur E. G. Godard

Private, 25th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in New York in 1891. At the age of ten he moved with his parents to Digby, Nova Scotia, and at the age of seventeen he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He went overseas in November, 1915, as a Private in the 55th New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Battalion, Canadian Infantry. Because of his banking experience he was detailed to the Pay and Records Office in London where he remained for some months. He then asked to be transferred to a combatant unit as he desired to go to the firing line, and after taking a course in machine-gunnery, he was sent to France in November, 1916, and attached to the machine-gun section of the 25th Battalion. On April 9th, 1917, he was severely wounded in the attack for the taking of Vimy Ridge. He died from his wounds on July 12th, 1917, at the Southwark Military Hospital, London.

Charles F. O. Gorman

Gunner, Canadian Field Artillery, C.E.F.

Was born at Manotick, Ontario, in March, 1888. After receiving his education at the Public School and at the Model School, Ottawa, and at Ashbury College, Rockliffe, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in Ottawa, being later transferred to Montreal Branch. In the spring of 1916 he enlisted in Montreal as a Gunner in the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Early in 1917 he arrived in France, where he was attached to the Canadian Field Artillery in the 1st Brigade, 1st Canadian Division. On the 10th of May, 1917, while he was taking up ammunition to his battery in the forward area in front of Vimy Ridge over a road which was then under intense enemy shell-fire, he was severely wounded by a fragment of shell. Eight days later, on May 18th, 1917, he died from his wounds in No. 30 Casualty Clearing Station, France.

Allan Gray

Captain, 72nd Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Burford, Ontario, in 1889. After receiving his education at Trinity College School, Port Hope, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. In April, 1915, he enlisted in Vancouver, B.C., as a Private in the 11th Canadian Mounted Rifles, in which he received his commission as Lieutenant in September, 1915. In England he was transferred to the 72nd Battalion, Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, and he arrived in France in 1916. On August 31st, he was slightly wounded. In October he was invalided to England but he rejoined his unit in December. He was stricken with fever in June, 1917, and he was unable to return to the front until September, 1918. During the offensive against Cambrai he was made acting-Captain and while leading his company in the attack at Sancourt on September 29th, 1918, he was instantly killed.

Charles Edward Russell Hall

Private, 3rd Field Amb., C.A.M.C., C.E.F.

Was born in Gateshead-on-Tyne, England, on May 8th, 1896. After receiving his education at the Royal Grammar School, he came to Canada with his parents and settled in British Columbia. In September, 1912, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal at Port Haney, B.C., and was later transferred to the Summerland Branch, where he was employed at the time of his enlistment. In January, 1915, he enlisted in Victoria, B.C., as a Private in the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, and went overseas with his unit. Because of a severe illness which impaired his health he was later transferred to the 3rd Canadian Field Ambulance, with which he remained until he was killed by enemy shell-fire on September 27th, 1918, during the successful Canadian attack along the Canal du Nord in the advance towards Cambrai.

Edward Hanam Haines

Acting-Sergeant, C.A.M.C., C.E.F.

Was born in Montreal in 1892. After receiving his education at St. Lambert Academy, he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal in Montreal. While stationed at that office he enlisted in 1915 as a Private in "A" Sanitary Section of the Canadian Army Medical Corps and went overseas with his unit. Because of his general efficiency and his devotion to duty he was soon promoted to the rank of Corporal, and after his unit arrived in France he was given the rank of Sergeant. The special work of his sub-section was to supervise and to test the water and well supplies, and to have general oversight of the sanitary arrangements at the field bases, on the lines of communication and in the trenches. While he was making a sanitary inspection of the front trenches in July, 1916, during the intense fighting on the Somme, he was instantly killed by enemy shell-fire.

Ewart Martin Hallsmith

Lieutenant, Canadian Mounted Rifles, C.E.F.

Was born in London, England, in 1893, and was educated at Christ's College, Finchley. He entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in London in 1910, but in 1912 he was transferred to the branch in Regina, Saskatchewan. He enlisted early in November, 1914, as a Private in the Canadian Mounted Rifles and went overseas with the Second Canadian Contingent. On the 30th of March, 1916, he was wounded in the forearm, but after some weeks in hospital he rejoined his battalion in the line. He was given his commission as Lieutenant in January, 1918. For over three years he took part in practically all the heavy fighting in which the Canadians were engaged. On November 4th, 1918, just one week before the Armistice was signed, he was instantly killed by an enemy sniper while leading a party of men on a patrol near Bruay.

He enlisted in 1915 in the 47th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, in which he was given his commission as Lieutenant. In February, 1916, he went to France, and was there attached to the 29th Battalion. After some months of service in the line he was invalided to England suffering from inflammatory rheumatism, but he was able to rejoin his unit in France in July, 1916. In the following August his battalion was ordered to the Somme and here on September 26th, 1916, while leading his platoon in an attack against an enemy position during the intense fighting near Courcelette, he was instantly killed by enemy fire. He was buried not far from Albert.

Brian Hards

Private, 24th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in London, England, on April 9th, 1897. He came to Canada at an early age and after receiving his education at the Wykeham House School, Montreal, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in October, 1914, and at the time of his enlistment he was employed in the West End Branch, Montreal. He enlisted in March, 1915, as a Private in the 24th Battalion, Canadian Infantry. He went overseas with his unit in the following June, and after a brief period of training in England, he arrived in France in September, 1915. He went into action at once with his battalion on the Belgian front where the enemy offensive was proceeding. He had been in the line but a few weeks when on November 11th, 1915, he was instantly killed by enemy fire while his unit was resisting an intense enemy attack. He was buried near where he fell.

Claude Llewelyn Harris

Captain, 7th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Wakefield, England, in 1893. He was educated at the Wakefield Grammar School. He came to Canada in 1912 and entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. In 1915 he enlisted in British Columbia, as a Private in the 72nd Battalion, Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, and went to France with his unit. In January, 1916, he was given his commission as Lieutenant and attached to the 7th Battalion. During the enemy attack at Ypres in June, 1916, when all his Company officers were casualties, he took command and led his men with great skill. He was later promoted to Captain. Soon afterwards he was severely wounded, but on his recovery he rejoined his unit and was promoted to acting-Major. He was instantly killed while leading his company in the attack for the capture of Vimy Ridge on the morning of April 9th, 1917.

Was born at Berwick-on-Tweed, Scotland, in 1892. He was educated at the Berwickshire High School, and after serving some years with the Commercial Bank of Scotland, Limited, during which he qualified with honours as an Associate of the Scottish Bankers' Institute, he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted for overseas service in December, 1915, and was given his commission as Lieutenant in the 1st Royal Scots Fusiliers. He arrived in France with his regiment in November, 1916. He received special commendation for his gallant and efficient work at the taking of Vimy Ridge on April 9th, 1917, where his division fought on the right of the Canadians in the Arras sector. He was killed, with practically all the officers of his battalion, on May 3rd, 1917, during an enemy counter-attack in front of Monchy, five miles east of Arras.

William Cornelius Kent

Private, 46th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Burford, Ontario, in 1898. In 1912 he moved with his parents to Outlook, Saskatchewan, and here, after completing his education, he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal in December, 1914. One year later he enlisted as a Private in the 128th Battalion, Canadian Infantry. He went overseas in August, 1916, and after taking a short machine-gun course in England, he was sent to France with a reinforcement draft for the machine-gun section of the 46th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, with which he served until his death. During the late autumn of 1916 and the spring of 1917 he was in action with his unit. He was instantly killed by enemy fire on the early morning of April 9th, 1917, while advancing with his section against the enemy trenches in the successful attack by the Canadians for the capture of Vimy Ridge.

Alfred Robert Knight

Lieutenant, Royal Naval Division

Was born in Ashford, Kent, England, in 1889. He received his education at the Grammar School of his native place where he won distinction as a student and as an athlete. After completing his education he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal in London, England. In May, 1915, he enlisted in the Armoured Car Section of the Royal Naval Air Service, but as this unit was soon afterwards disbanded he transferred to the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, in which he was given his commission as Lieutenant in September, 1915. After several months training in England he arrived in France in July, 1916, with the Royal Naval Division, and went at once into action. Four months later, on November 13th, 1916, he was instantly killed in action near Beaucourt on the Somme, during the intense fighting in that sector. He was buried near Beaucourt Hamel.

George Bertram Knight

Lieutenant, Royal Flying Corps

Was born in Leytonstone, Essex, England, in 1890. He was educated at St. Olave's Grammar School, Southwark, London, where he won a scholarship. He then served with the London and County Banking Company, Limited, for five years, and passed the examination of the Institute of Bankers. He later came to Canada as a member of the staff of the Bank of British North America. He enlisted in Calgary in 1914 with the signal section of the Canadian Engineers. In England he was transferred to the Canadians Ordnance Department, in which he was promoted to Quartermaster-Sergeant. In 1917 he joined the Royal Flying Corps, and went to France as a Lieutenant in the 54th Squadron. On March 21st, 1918, while on patrol he was shot down within his own lines and severely wounded. He died from his wounds on April 7th, 1918, at Rouen.

Carl Gordon Laberee

Lieutenant, 87th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Sawyerville, Quebec, on October 19th, 1896. He received his education at the public school in his native village and at Bishop's College School, Lennoxville. At the age of seventeen he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal at Sherbrooke. He enlisted in 1915 as a Private in the 87th Battalion, Canadian Grenadier Guards, in which he was attached to the signalling section. He arrived in France with his unit in 1916. He was given his commission as Lieutenant in January, 1918. On the early morning of September 2nd, 1918, during the advance toward Cambrai, while lying with his platoon in No Man's Land waiting for the signal to attack the Drocourt-Queant line, he was severely wounded by enemy shell-fire. He died from his wounds in the Royal Free Hospital, London, on November 28th, 1918, and was buried in Brookwood Cemetery.

Adam Cuppage Knox

Sergeant, 1st C.M.M.G.C., C.E.F.

After receiving his education at the Central School in his native city, he entered the service of the Bank of British North America in July, 1911. He enlisted in August, 1914, as a Private in the 1st Pioneer Battalion, and after four months on home duty he joined the machine-gun section of the 1st Canadian Pioneers for overseas service. He was later transferred to "B" Battery of the 1st Canadian Motor Machine-Gun Corps with which he continued to serve until his death. For great devotion to duty and conspicuous gallantry in action he was awarded the Military Medal in October, 1917. He was killed in action on the morning of September 27th, 1918, during the successful Canadian attack along the Canal du Nord in the advance to Cambrai.

John Hewitt Laird

Lieutenant, 24th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Quebec City, Quebec, in September, 1897. He received his education at Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, and at an early age he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in January, 1916, as a Private in the Canadian Infantry. After reaching France he was given his commission as Lieutenant, and attached to the 24th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, with which he remained until his death. On the early morning of August 15th, 1917, while leading his platoon in the attack on Hill 70, near Lens, he was severely wounded in the face. He refused to return to the dressing station, as his company had not yet reached its objective and he believed that his duty was not yet done. He still pressed forward at the head of his men, but he had gone but a few yards when he was instantly killed by enemy shell-fire.

Lieutenant, 85th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, in 1895. He received his education at Lunenburg Academy, and on his graduation he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal, in 1913. He enlisted in November, 1915, and after qualifying as Lieutenant he was posted to the 112th Battalion. He was transferred to the 219th Battalion, and later detailed for duty with the munitions guard at Trenton, N.S. He went overseas in May, 1917, with a reinforcement draft, and on his arrival in France in January, 1918, he was attached to the 85th Battalion in which he ultimately became Second in Command of "D" Company. During the Canadian attack which broke the Drocourt-Queant line in front of Arras on September 2nd, 1918, he was killed while leading his men through enemy wire, in the face of intense machine-gun fire from a strong enemy outpost.

Alexander H. P. Leitch

Second Lieutenant, Rifle Brigade

Was born in Morecambe, England, in 1893. He received his education at the Perth Academy, and after serving his apprenticeship in the Perth County and City Savings Bank, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in London, England. In August, 1915, he enlisted as a Private in the Perthshire Territorial Battalion of the Black Watch, and went to France in 1916. After some months of heavy fighting he was invalided home suffering from trench fever which developed into typhoid. On his recovery, he received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant, and in December, 1917, he returned to France where he was attached to the Rifle Brigade. On May 22nd, 1918, he was severely wounded by bombs dropped from an enemy aeroplane, which killed four of his brother officers and wounded five others. He died from his wounds a few hours later.

Reginald C. L. Leigh-Spencer

Private, Canadian Mounted Rifles, C.E.F.

Was born in Vancouver, British Columbia in 1894. After receiving his education in Vancouver he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He went overseas in 1915 as a Private in the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles. In June, 1916, he was severely wounded and shell-shocked at the battle of Sanctuary Wood in the Ypres salient. As a result, he was physically unfit to return at once to the firing line, and on leaving hospital he was attached to the Records Office at Rouen. When he improved in health he was transferred to the 3rd Divisional Train, and during the last year of the war he was on the Headquarters Staff of the 8th Army Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. Three weeks after the Armistice was signed, while he was in Paris on his first leave in fourteen months, he was stricken with pneumonia, from which he died on December 11th, 1918.

Cecil John Letherby

Private, 28th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Bridgewater, England, on June 28th, 1892. After receiving his education at St. John's School, Bridgewater, and at Sexey's School, Bruton, he joined the staff of the Bank of British North America in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, in May, 1913. After a year and a half of service, he enlisted in October, 1914, as a Private in the 28th Battalion, Canadian Infantry; he proceeded overseas with the Second Canadian Contingent, and after a brief period of training on Salisbury Plain he arrived in France with his unit in 1915. He went into action at once with his battalion in Belgium where the enemy offensive was proceeding, and he was almost continuously in the line in the autumn of 1915. During an enemy attack he was severely wounded by enemy fire and died from his wounds shortly afterwards on November 22nd.

After serving some time with the London and Provincial Bank, Limited, he came to Canada where he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal in Vancouver, British Columbia. He enlisted in November, 1914, and went overseas as a Private in the Canadian Infantry. Later he transferred to the British Expeditionary Force. In January, 1916, he received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant, and was attached to the 8th Norfolk Battalion. He was promoted to Lieutenant in March, 1917, and appointed Machine-Gun Officer of his unit. On August 14th, 1917, during severe fighting in the Ypres salient he was severely wounded and gassed. He died a few hours later in the Casualty Clearing Station at Poperinghe.

Reginald Hector Longhurst

Private, 73rd Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Granby, Quebec, on July 5th, 1896. After receiving his education at the High School in his native place he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in the Cookshire branch in April, 1914. He was later employed in Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, and Montreal. In October, 1915, he enlisted as a Private in the 73rd Battalion, 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada, and went to France with his unit in the following summer. He took part in the operations on the Somme during the summer and autumn of 1916, and in the Vimy Sector in the winter of 1916-1917. After a raid near Vimy Ridge on the night of March 1st, 1917, a Lieutenant of his company was reported missing. He volunteered with two others to search for the missing officer. His two comrades came back, but he did not return. Later his body was recovered near the enemy wire.

Cecil John Likeman

Private, 43rd Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in London, England, in 1899. After leaving school in 1915 he joined the staff of the Bank of British North America at Punnichy, Saskatchewan. He enlisted in May, 1917, as a Private in the Canadian Infantry, and before going overseas he served for five months with the Military Police in Saskatoon. In April, 1918, he went to England where he was attached to the 43rd Battalion, Canadian Reserves at Bramshott Camp. After completing his training there he went to France in August, 1918, with a reinforcement draft for the 43rd Battalion, Cameron Highlanders of Canada, and was sent at once into the firing line. He had been in action with his unit but a few weeks when on October 1st, 1918, he was instantly killed by enemy machine-gun fire during the attack for the capture of Tilloy Village in the successful Canadian advance on Cambrai.

Maurice Lowe

Lieutenant, Royal Flying Corps

Was born at Aintree, Liverpool, England, in July, 1891. He was educated at the Liverpool Institute High School, and after serving his apprenticeship with the Bank of Liverpool, Limited, he came to Canada and joined the staff of the Bank of British North America in February, 1912. He enlisted in November, 1914, and went to France in 1915. He was severely wounded in May, 1915, and, on his partial recovery, he was detailed for duty with the Headquarters Staff in England, where he remained for sixteen months. He then joined the Royal Flying Corps, and went to France as a Lieutenant in May, 1917. On June 27th, 1917, he went out on patrol and did not return. He was listed as "missing." Later it was reported in a message dropped by the enemy that he was killed in aerial combat on that day, and that he was buried at Marneken Ferme.

Private, 13th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in June, 1893. He received his education at George Heriot's School in his native city. After leaving school he served for a time with the Union Bank of Scotland, Limited. He came to Canada in 1913 and joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal. In August, 1914, he enlisted in Montreal as a Private in the 13th Battalion, 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada. He went overseas with his unit and arrived in France with the First Canadian Contingent in February, 1915. He took part in the operations in which his battalion was engaged throughout the winter and early spring. During the defence of the Ypres salient against the intense enemy attack in which poison gas was first used against the Canadians he was instantly killed by enemy fire on April 24th, 1915, two months after he had reached the firing line.

Harold Dickens McCann

Gunner, C. F. A., C. S. E. F.

Was born in London, Ontario, in 1897. He received his education at the Sacred Heart Separate School, and at the London Collegiate Institute from which he graduated with honours. After taking a business course, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in his native city. He enlisted in April, 1918, as a Gunner in the 63rd Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, and during the training of his unit at the Petawawa Camp he qualified as a Signaller and as a Gun-layer. In September, 1918, when volunteers for Siberia were called for, he transferred to the 85th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, for Siberian service. Soon afterwards his unit was ordered to sail for its destination. He was taken suddenly ill in British Columbia while en route to Siberia with his unit and died at New Westminster, B.C., on October 13th, 1918.

Alexander M. Macdonald

Corporal, London Scottish

Was born in Aberfeldy, Scotland, in 1885. After seven years in the Union Bank of Scotland, Limited, he entered the London office of the Bank of Montreal. In 1914, he went to France as a Private in the London Scottish Regiment. He was later promoted to Corporal. During his first year at the front he was twice wounded, the second time at the Battle of Loos. He was killed in action on the Somme on July 1st, 1916. Although on that day he was in charge of the water-carts behind the line he volunteered to carry ammunition to his battalion, which, in a critical position after having successfully captured the enemy trenches in the early morning attack near Habuterne, was urgently calling for bombs and cartridges. With his supplies, he went forward from his former front line over ground then under intense enemy shell-fire. He was not seen or heard of again.

Michael Bernard McCool

Private, 46th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Londonderry, Ireland, in May, 1894. After receiving his education at St. Columba's College, Derry, he came to Canada in 1913 and entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted as a Private in the Canadian Forces in March, 1916, and went overseas with the Canadian Infantry. In 1917 he was seriously wounded by enemy fire during an attack, but after some months in hospital he recovered sufficiently to rejoin his unit in the field. He took part in all the operations in which his battalion was engaged in the final phase of the war during the summer of 1918. On the morning of September 2nd, 1918, he was again severely wounded by enemy fire when his unit was making an attack on the enemy lines during the battle of Arras in the advance towards Cambrai. He died from his wounds on September 3rd, 1918.

Lieutenant, 10th T. M. B., C.E.F.

Was born on September 13th, 1894, in Alexandria, Ontario, a son of Lieut.-Colonel A. G. F. Macdonald, who commanded a Canadian overseas battalion. After completing his education in Loyola College, Montreal, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. On June 5th, 1915, he enlisted in the 77th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, in which he was given his commission as Lieutenant. On his arrival in England with his unit he was transferred to the 50th Battalion. He took a special course in musketry and trench mortar work, and he was subsequently transferred to the 10th Trench Mortar Battery with which he served at the front until his death. On November 18th, 1916, while leading a bombing party forward in an attack on a position during the Somme offensive, he was severely wounded by enemy shell-fire. He died from his wounds a few days later.

John Ruxton Macgillivray

Private, Queen's Westminster Rifles

Was born in October, 1896, in Aberdeen, Scotland. He received his education at the Gergask School, Laggan, and at the Kingussie Higher Grade School, where he won distinction in his studies. After leaving school he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in the London office in January, 1914. He enlisted in March, 1915, as a Private in the Queen's Westminster Rifles, British Expeditionary Force, and arrived in France with his regiment in the following September. Throughout the spring and the early summer of 1916 he took part in all the operations in which his unit was engaged. After the severe fighting on the Somme on July 1st, 1916, in which the casualties in his battalion were unusually heavy, he was reported "missing." His body was not recovered, nor has any definite information been received about the manner of his death.

Shirley John Macdonnell

Private, C. A. M. C., C.E.F.

Was born in Ottawa, in April, 1899. He was the son of P. J. C. Macdonnell, now manager of the Bank of Montreal at Perth, Ontario. At the time of his enlistment he was a junior in the Perth office of the Bank of Montreal. He went overseas in 1916 as a Private in the Ambulance Corps recruited at Queen's University, Kingston. He was seriously gassed at Vimy Ridge in April, 1917, and was invalided to England. After several months in hospital in England and Scotland, he returned to France in March, 1918. As he had not yet fully recovered, he was not sent directly back to his former unit, but was attached for duty temporarily to No. 1 Canadian General Hospital at Etaples. There, on the night of May 19th, 1918, he was instantly killed with many of his comrades by bombs dropped from enemy aeroplanes during an air raid on the hospital.

Donald H. Macgregor

Second Lieutenant, Gordon Highlanders

Was born at Denholm, near Hawick, Scotland. After receiving his education at George Watson's College and at Edinburgh University, he came to Canada where he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. Early in 1916 he returned to Scotland to enlist with the Gordon Highlanders, in which he received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant. He was on active service during a considerable period of the war, and took part in many of the battles in which his battalion was engaged. He was especially commended for gallant conduct during the enemy offensive in March, 1918, when with a small body of men, after all his company officers had fallen, he kept the enemy from turning his battalion's right flank. On the 23rd of August, 1918, he was instantly killed by enemy fire while leading his men in an attack on the enemy's position.

In August, 1915, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal. He enlisted in March, 1916, and later received a commission as Lieutenant in the 90th Battalion. He went overseas in the following May with the 234th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, to which he had been transferred. In January, 1917, he resigned his commission to join the Royal Air Force in which he received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant. In July, 1917, he went to France where he was attached for duty to the 29th Squadron, R.A.F. While flying over the Ypres salient on September 21st, 1917, he was engaged in unequal battle by a three-seated Gotha; he was shot down by the enemy combatant and instantly killed.

Daniel Mackinnon

Private, 13th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Greenock, Scotland, in 1892. At the age of fifteen he entered the service of the Union Bank of Scotland, Limited, at Port Glasgow, where he served his apprenticeship. In 1912 he came to Canada and entered the service of the Bank of British North America. In August, 1914, he journeyed from British Columbia to Montreal at his own expense to enlist as a Private in the 13th Battalion, 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada. He arrived in France in February, 1915, and was detailed for duty with the machine-gun section of his battalion. He was in action with his unit in the Ypres salient during the spring of 1915. On May 23rd, 1915, immediately after the battle of the Orchard at Festubert, while his battalion was being relieved in the front line, he was instantly killed by enemy fire just as his tour of duty had ended.

John W. Mackenzie

Private, 54th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Lockerbie, Scotland, in 1890. He served his apprenticeship with the Commercial Bank of Scotland, Limited, and qualified as an Associate of the Bankers' Institute. In 1913 he came to Canada to continue in his chosen profession and joined the Bank of British North America. He enlisted in Victoria, B.C., in 1915, as a Private in the 54th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and arrived in France with his unit early in 1917. He was in continuous action with his battalion during the stubborn fighting throughout the spring and summer of that year. On September 8th, 1917, when in charge of an outpost detachment near Lens, after his non-commissioned officer had fallen, he was killed in a hand-to-hand encounter with bomb and bayonet while resisting an enemy attack for the capture of the position. The post was held and maintained.

Alistair A. M. Maclean

Private, London Scottish

Elder brother of Victor M. Maclean, also killed in action, was born in Kingussie, Scotland, in 1894. He was educated at the Higher Grade School, Kingussie. After leaving school he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in London, England, in November, 1911, and remained there until his enlistment. On the outbreak of war he enlisted as a Private in the London Scottish Regiment and after a few weeks of training he went to France with his unit in October, 1914. He went into action at once with his battalion. He had been only two weeks in the firing line when he was severely wounded by enemy shell-fire during intense and stubborn fighting on November 11th. Three days later he died in a hospital in France as a result of his wounds. He was one of two brothers, both employed in the Bank of Montreal, who fell in action.

Was born in St. John, New Brunswick, in July, 1879. He received his education in the schools of his native city, and in March, 1896, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in St. John. He was subsequently attached to the Moncton, Toronto, Montreal and St. Mary's branches. For over four years previous to his enlistment he was Accountant in the branch in Chatham, Ontario. During this period he was an active member of the Chatham Tennis Club, the Macaulay Club, and the Christ Church Choir. In August, 1915, he enlisted as a Private in the 70th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and went overseas with his unit a few weeks later. Before going overseas he qualified for his commission as Lieutenant. Soon after his arrival in France his unit was ordered to the Somme where fighting was in progress. Here he was killed on August 12th, 1916.

William J. J. Martin

Private, 73rd Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Quebec City, Quebec, in December, 1897. He received his education at the Commercial Academy in his native city. After leaving school he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal, in May, 1914, and was employed in Quebec and later in Granby. He enlisted in Montreal in October, 1915, as a Private in the 73rd Battalion, Royal Highlanders of Canada, and went overseas with his regiment in March, 1916. After a few weeks training in England he proceeded to France with his unit in the following summer. His battalion was at once ordered to the Somme, where intense fighting was in progress. He had been in the line but a few weeks when he was severely wounded by enemy fire while in action with his unit on the morning of November 2nd, 1916. He died from his wounds a few hours later in No. 4 Casualty Clearing Station.

Charles Edward Merrix

Private, 28th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Shoreham, Sussex, England, in January, 1897. After completing his education in the Municipal Secondary School in Brighton, he came to Canada and entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in Port Arthur in 1912. In April, 1916, he enlisted as a Private in the 94th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and in the following July he arrived in England with his unit which was subsequently broken up into drafts. After a brief period of training, he went to France in August, 1916, with a reinforcement draft for the 28th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, then in action on the Somme front where severe fighting was in progress. He reached the firing line on September 12th, and three days later, on the early morning of September 15th, 1916, he was instantly killed by enemy fire while advancing with his platoon in the attack at Courcelette.

Geoffrey James Meyrick

Private, Gordon Highlanders

Was born in Highbury, England, on April, 18th, 1899. After receiving his education at the Whitgift Middle School in Croydon, he entered the service of the Bank of Montreal in London, England, in March, 1915, and remained there until his enlistment. In May, 1917, he enlisted as a Private in the London Scottish Regiment. After several months training in England he proceeded to France where he was subsequently transferred to the Gordon Highlanders. His desire was to join the Royal Flying Corps, but to his great regret he was unable to pass the severe physical tests to enable him to obtain a pilot's commission. He therefore remained with the infantry. He had been in the line with the Gordon Highlanders but four months, when on the 23rd of July, 1918, he was instantly killed in action by enemy fire during an attack upon an enemy position.

Douglas Gordon Mitchell

Acting Sergeant, 2nd Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Toronto, Ontario, in 1888. He was educated in Toronto, at the Huron Street Public School and the Harbord Collegiate Institute. At the time of his enlistment he was on the staff of the Bank of Montreal at Lindsay, Ontario. He enlisted in August, 1914, and went to France with the First Canadian Contingent. After qualifying as a Signaller he was promoted to Sergeant and placed in charge of a signalling section. For gallant conduct in repairing telephone wires and keeping up communications under intense fire in the Ypres salient he was awarded the Military Medal. He was killed at Vimy Ridge on April 11th, 1917, when he went out under heavy shell-fire to locate a broken wire which interrupted communications during an attack and which had to be repaired at all costs. His body was found lying beside the wire which he had mended.

Lionel Dempster Miller

Cadet, 19th Royal Fusiliers

Was born in St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, in March, 1893. He was educated at Trent College, Derbyshire, England, where he was a member of the Officers' Training Corps. After his graduation he decided to follow banking as his profession. He went to Mexico where his father had been living for some years, and there he joined the staff of the Bank of Montreal. Here he remained until his enlistment. When war broke out he went to England at once to volunteer for overseas service with one of the English regiments. He enlisted in the 19th (Public Schools) Battalion, Royal Fusiliers, British Expeditionary Force, and went into training in England. While in training with his battalion at Clipston Camp in the Midlands, not long before he was to proceed to France on active service, he died on June 12th, 1915, as the result of an accident.

Gordon Ashford Mitchell

Lance-Corporal, 7th Battalion, C.E.F.

Was born in Sarnia, Ontario, on April 8th, 1889. After completing his education, he joined the staff of the Ontario Bank which was acquired by the Bank of Montreal in 1906. He was employed successively in Collingwood and Lindsay, Ontario, and in Rossland, Vancouver, Cloverdale, New Westminster, Kelowna, and Armstrong, B.C., and had been in the service of the Bank for nearly nine years. On the outbreak of war he enlisted in the Rocky Mountain Rangers; he went to England in the First Canadian Contingent as a Private in the 7th Battalion, and arrived in France in February, 1915. Later he was appointed to the rank of Lance-Corporal. He went into action at once with his battalion in Belgium. He was severely wounded during an enemy attack in the Ypres salient, in May, 1915, and died from his wounds on May 29th.
